Bank Cashier's Body Discovered

Vanished After Talk With Man In Office

CLEAR LAKE, Minn. (AP)—The body of bank cashier Kenneth Lindbergh, whose disappearance touched off an extensive search by federal and state law agencies, was found Friday in a snowy pasture.

Three boys came upon the body, partially covered with snow, as they hunted rabbits. Lindbergh lay frozen to the ground, the snow stained with blood that had flowed from a bullet wound in his head.

Checking Fingerprints
The identification was unofficial, pending an FBI comparison of fingerprints and the viewing of the body by one of Lindbergh's relatives. However, all the officers who viewed the body were certain it was that of the bank cashier.

"It's Lindbergh all right," said Sheriff Chester Goenner.

Lindbergh vanished late Nov. 12 after conferring in his Thief River Falls, Minn., bank office with a stranger who had phoned him from Minneapolis, saying he wanted to deposit $25,000.

The sheriff added, "We're definitely working on the theory the man was murdered." Goenner said no gun has been found in the snow-covered field.

Abandoned Car Found
The cashier's abandoned car was found last week in Minneapolis and the trunk contained some $1,500 of the $1,750 in silver missed from the bank after Lindbergh's disappearance. Also taken from the bank were $14,000 in travelers' checks, some of which turned up in Detroit and Chicago.

Sheriff Goenner said no wallet was found in the clothing of the slain man, but that a hat nearby bore the stamp of a Thief River Falls store.

A key case with cards carrying Lindbergh's name, a letter addressed to the banker and a receipt made out to him were found.

The body was found on the Lawrence Fierick farm by three Fierick boys—Merle, 17, Kenneth, 10, and Gary, 7.

At Thief River Falls, a newsman reported the community of about 7,000 was "shocked and even bitter." Residents described Lindbergh as a highly respected person.

A niece said Mrs. Lindbergh had "been prepared for something like this," although she and the couple's four children had held high hopes for the banker's return home.

Authorities said they did not know why the silver might have been left in the car. No estimate was given on the weight of the coins.

Lisbon Plans Decorations For Square

LISBON — About 200 children turned out Friday afternoon about 4:30 when Santa Claus made his first official visit to the village.

Edward Trunick of Lisbon, played the part of Santa. He rode through town, talked to the children and passed out candy canes. Santa's visit was sponsored by The Lisbon Businessmen's Association.

Paul Kuhns, hardware dealer, was in charge of arrangements. Meanwhile, three village organizations — Kiwanis Club, Rotary Club, and the businessmen's group — are going ahead with plans to decorate the Public Square for the holiday.

The Kiwanis Club has erected a 25-foot Christmas tree and three smaller ones at the Music Center on the Square.

Eugene Tolson, chairman of the Kiwanis Lighting committee, said 60 Christmas trees have been purchased to tie onto some 30 poles around the square.

The trees will be lighted and decorated, he said.

Tolson said replacement of old light poles with the new "white-way" type has slowed decoration plans because the new poles "haven't settled yet."

He also said large bells and other decorations will be placed at the entrances to the village to complete the decorations.

Village council agreed Friday night to provide electric power outlets for the three sections of the square so lights can be hooked up.

Bloodmobile Visit Will Be Wednesday

Fifty more registrants are needed for the fifth visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to the American Legion Home Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., according to Miss Hazel Linn, local Red Cross executive.

A total of 130 donors already have registered, but because of various reasons for rejections, 180 prospective donors are needed to reach the goal of 125 pints needed.

All residents of northern Columbiana County are asked to participate in the project. The next visit of the Bloodmobile will be in early January.

Miss Linn revealed that 70 pints of blood have been authorized for local and area residents who were treated in hospitals in Cleveland, Youngstown, Columbus and Philadelphia. The program provides blood for local residents who need treatment anywhere in the United States or its territories, not just in the two local hospitals.

No Evidence Of Crime Found In Woodward Case

Grand Jury Absolves Millionaire's Widow Of Blame In Shooting

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP)—A grand jury has found no evidence of crime in the death of socialite killed by a shotgun fired by his wife, Ann.

Tottering from the Nassau County Court House Friday night, after the panel absolved her of blame in the shooting, the grief-worn, black-clad, 39-year-old widow had to be assisted to a car.

Her face and demeanor a far cry from the svelte, blonde woman who moved in society's select circles, Mrs. Woodward could only mumble incoherently to waiting newsmen as she emerged from her ordeal of telling the jury what happened in the early hours of Sunday, Oct. 30.

Her attorney, Murray Gurfein, said: "She now feels she can be left alone with her children."

Two Sons Slept

He was referring to the two Woodward sons—William III, 11 years old, and James, 7—who slept through the shooting in their home at Oyster Bay, Long Island.

Mrs. Woodward was one of 31 witnesses heard Friday by the jury, which sat about 10 hours, then deliberated 46 minutes before voting "no indictment" in the killing of 39-year-old Woodward, owner of the race horse Nashua.

Since the shooting, following by a few hours a social gathering in honor of the Duchess of Windsor at another Long Island estate, Mrs. Woodward had been confined to a New York hospital suffering from grief and shock. Last Monday she was deemed well enough by her physician, Dr. John Prutting, to move to her town house in Manhattan.

Told Same Story
For the fourth time, the Kansas-born Mrs. Woodward, who met her millionaire-husband while a show girl in a New York night club, told essentially this same story:

She had been in fear of a prowler active in the vicinity of the Woodwards' estate the weekend of the killing. She and her husband armed themselves with shotguns when they returned from the party and retired to separate bedrooms on opposite sides of a 10-foot-wide hallway.

Awakened by the barking of the family dog, she said, she grabbed the shotgun, opened her bedroom door and fired blindly into the darkened hallway in the direction of a noise.

Her husband, unclad and unarmed, had been standing in his own doorway and was struck in the head by a shotgun blast.

Refugee Testifies

One witness was Paul Wirths, 22-year-old German refugee who admitted earlier to police he previously broke into the garage and a bathroom near the outdoor swimming pool on the Woodward 60-acre estate.

Wirths, picked up by authorities in connection with the looting of another home in the area, first denied he had been prowling about the Woodward home the morning of the fatal shooting.

Later, he said he had been on the roof above Mrs. Woodward's bedroom when he heard the shotgun go off.

Wirths, in a recent reenactment, climbed a tree and scrambled onto the roof above Mrs. Woodward's first-floor bedroom. Detectives he said they plainly could hear the composition roof creaking as Wirths moved about.

Hard Task Seen In Ending Rail Segregation

Railroads Always Obey ICC Order, Official Declares

WASHINGTON (AP)—Railroad men here said today the task of achieving racial desegregation in the South's interstate train service will present almost as many problems as the first rail crossing of the Continental Divide in 1869.

But as one executive put it: "The railroads always obey an ICC order."

He referred to Friday's order from the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) directing an end effective Jan. 10 to racial segregation of interstate passengers on trains and buses, and in public waiting rooms and rest rooms.

No Plans Made
A check with a half-dozen rail executives disclosed no firm plan of action yet to carry the order into effect. They agreed many problems were involved. They asked not to be quoted by name.

None of the railroad representatives here suggested taking an appeal from the ICC order to the Supreme Court, whose 1954 ruling on school segregation was cited by the ICC in support of its order.

"One official commented: 'It may be that the long-established practice of southern railroads in separating white and negro passengers may just go by the boards under the weight of operating difficulties.'"

To Keep Local Laws

He discussed the situation against a backdrop of statements from southern state officials, asserting their intention to retain local statutes requiring railroad companies to maintain separate or divided coaches, waiting rooms and rest rooms for whites and Negroes.

And this, one railroad man said, is the heart of the difficulty. After Jan. 10, the railroads are confronted with the prospect of maintaining one set of "mixed" accommodations for interstate travelers to satisfy the ICC, and another set of separate facilities for intrastate patrons, to satisfy local authorities.

217 Chickens Die In Lisbon Farm Fire

LISBON — A fire on the second floor of a three-story chicken house containing about 1,300 chickens caused more than $1,000 damage and killed at least 217 chickens Friday about 3:30 p.m. at the farm owned by Fayson Miller, a mile north of the village on Route 45.

Miller said he didn't know the origin of the fire, but thought it might have been caused by a poor electrical connection. He estimated damage to the building at $1,000 and said the loss of the chickens would run into "several hundreds of dollars." The building and chickens were insured, Miller added.

The poultryman said 217 chickens were burned in the fire. "A few more probably will die of suffocation," he said.

Ohio Edison Co. crewmen spotted the blaze while driving by the farm. They battled it with fire extinguishers after reporting it to Mrs. Miller. She called the Lisbon volunteer fire department.

Miller said he thought the building would be a total loss when he first saw it in flames. "The building probably wouldn't have been saved if the fire department hadn't gotten here quickly," he said.

Crew Of Wrecked Ship Rescued By Helicopter

HALIFAX, N. S. (AP)—The crew of the wrecked Liberian freighter Kismet II was rescued by helicopter today. Rescuers had battled snow, rough seas and high winds on the rocky north coast of Cape Breton Island since Friday. The men were hauled to safety in a boatswain's chair swinging below a Canadian navy helicopter. The helicopter dodged 1,000-foot coastal cliffs of the island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence to perform the feat.

The 2,848-ton ship had been pounded by seas whipped up by winds of 30 to 45 miles an hour since it ran aground Friday.

Dispatches from the scene said the crew of 22 was saved. Earlier reports had said 30 men were aboard.

Earlier, a convoy led by a snowplow and carrying a ton of breeches buoy equipment, reached the scene after pushing 100 miles through snow-clogged roads from Sydney.

Winds had diminished to 25 miles an hour and skies were clearing as the helicopter operation got underway.

Two lifelines were strung from a 1,000-foot cliff, only 25 feet away, to the stricken vessel. But the breeches buoy was necessary to make the lines effective.

Throughout the night rescuers kept watch atop the cliff, their searchlights cutting through a blinding snowstorm. At the foot of the cliff the gulf was churned by the winds into a boiling surf.

A Royal Canadian Air Force bomber tried Friday to drop survival gear to the freighter. This proved impractical as the wallowing vessel swung closer to the shore rocks. The plane's pilot, Flight Officer Peter Highfield, said the Kismet appeared to be still on an even keel but had several holes in her hull from the constant pounding.

Shows Gun, Kills Pal, 15
East Liverpool Boy Is Tragedy Victim
EAST LIVERPOOL — Denzil R. Baumgarner, 15, an East Liverpool high school sophomore, was killed instantly Friday afternoon at 2:30 when a shotgun in the hands of a companion was discharged accidentally.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Baumgarner of Bridge St.

Denzil and two companions, Byron Surgeon, 15, and David Coleman were at Surgeon's home, 17-53 Pennsylvania Ave., and had been watching television when the Surgeon boy decided to show off a shotgun he had used in hunting.

Coroner E. R. Sturgis said that Surgeon had the gun across his lap and put a shell in and as he closed it the weapon discharged. The full force of the shell hit the Baumgarner boy in the face, killing him instantly. He was seated close by, seated on a davenport.

The coroner said that examination showed that the gun was cocked and that Surgeon may have loaded backwards.

Baumgarner is survived by his parents, four brothers and four sisters.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon.

U.N. Demands Reds Account For POWs

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—The U.N. Command today again demanded that the Communists account for 2,720 missing Korean war prisoners, including 450 Americans.

Rear Adm. Walter E. Moore, senior Allied member of the Military Armistice Commission said the Reds were "not at all responsive" to the demand.

The Reds ignored the last U.N. demand for an accounting in August 1954.

The Communists in turn demanded the U.N. account for 98,739 of their men. Moore said he promised "a full accounting."

The list of Americans was made up to 244 missing soldiers, 190 airmen, 13 Marines, 3 Navy men, 46 members of U.N. contingents and the remainder South Koreans.

Community Chest Ends Sixth Week $1,651 Short Of Quota

Salem's Community Chest drive for $49,720 concluded its sixth week today, still lacking $1,651.11 to reach the goal.

A few new contributions, plus a doubling of donations by several persons, brought in some additional funds yesterday after the Thanksgiving holiday, but more are needed, General Chairman Walter B. Null said. The total now stands at $48,068.

However, he is confident the campaign will go over the top by mid-week and he asked that all team captains complete their reports by Wednesday.

Eleven "red feather" agencies share in the Community Fund. The breakdown is as follows:

Girl Scouts $3,000; Boy Scouts $4,400; Catholic Charities $2,150; Home For Aged Women $1,650; City Hospital $9,500; Central Clinic $4,000; Memorial Building $1,250; Legion Quaker City Band $900; Salvation Army $4,700; USO $1,500, and "emergency and contingency fund," $2,420.

The Community Chest Fund Council will meet sometime within the next two weeks to elect two new directors to the Association.

Salem Bypass Is Suggested

Road Would Alleviate Traffic, Is Claim

The construction of a bypass highway, beginning at the Millville Hill bridge and traveling in an arc north of Salem to connect with Rt. 62, west of the city, has been advanced by the Michael Baker Engineering Co. of Rochester, Pa., as the most logical way to alleviate traffic conditions in Salem.

The suggestion was put forth to city officials last night at a meeting here with Joseph Mundo, Michael Baker engineer in charge of drafting the arterial highway survey for Salem. The session had been called by the engineering firm to discuss its proposals with city officials prior to the drafting of a preliminary plan.

Mundo told the local group that approximately 4,000 vehicles, which do not make stops here, travel through the city each day.

The engineer declared, however, that because of the great number of motorists who do have their destination in Salem, the city's streets will remain somewhat overburdened if the highway north of Salem is constructed.

He said his firm had considered rebuilding another of Salem's streets to take care of the thru traffic but the cost involved for rights of ways and construction of an adequate roadway would be excessive. Mundo gitted the state would pay costs of building a highway. Mundo stated the state highway department approved the plan.

Other suggestions of the engineers at the meeting were:

- (1) Remove all parking from State St., between Lincoln and Ellsworth Aves.
- (2) Remove the traffic lights located at the intersection of Broadway and Lundy with State St. and install pedestrian operated blinker lights instead.
- (3) Remove some of the street lights from side streets here.

Mundo said his firm is conducting 21 traffic surveys at the present time. Out of the 21, he declared, Salem's is the most difficult problem to solve.

Attending the meeting were members of the City Planning Commission and Council, Mayor Dean B. Cranmer, Service Director James Feller and City Engineer F. S. Barckhoff.

Senators End Dope Hearing In Cleveland

Witnesses Tell Of Turning To Crime, Vice To Buy Drugs

CLEVELAND (AP)—Drug addicts, ex-junkies and public officials appeared as witnesses yesterday to tell a U. S. senate subcommittee a sordid story of narcotics racketeering in Ohio.

Among the witnesses were some who admitted they still were using heroin and marijuana, and described the sickness and pain that comes with trying to break the habit.

Women not long out of their teen spoke of turning to prostitution while still in grade school to pay for narcotics.

With the testimony here, the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Price Daniel (D-Tex.) and part of the Senate Judiciary Committee, ended a month-long tour of cities across the northern part of the United States. The group sought to establish whether federal narcotics laws require strengthening.

Two witnesses pleaded the Fifth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution in refusing to answer the subcommittee's questions.

One was bartender Sam G. Papalardo, 48, an ex-convict the committee said had tried to purchase $13,000 worth of drugs from a New York police figure, Nick Tuto, in 1953, for a federal undercover agent, Howard C. Chappell, who was posing as a dope peddler.

Papalardo denied knowing Tuto, and refused to answer a question dealing with an alleged relationship with another federal agent, Charles E. Voll. Senator Daniel declared the would refer the matter to the Justice Department to determine if perjury had been committed.

A husband and wife, William and Alma Stallworth, both said they still were addicts and had tried to procure drugs the night before the hearing.

"Mrs. Stallworth said a temporary 'panic' among Cleveland drug peddlers caused a shortage.

Using drugs "is something you can't explain," she told the committee, and added:

"You just get so sick you have real bad cramps, you vomit and nothing comes up, you have cold chills and hot sweats, and your joints are aching. It feels like you're gonna die."

She told the investigators she

Salem Woman Hurt In Rt. 14 Mishap

A 74-year-old Salem woman is in fairly good condition at the Central Clinic today as a result of injuries suffered in a two-car collision on Route 14, one and one-fourth of a mile north of the Columbiana-Mahoning County lines, at 4:30 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Minnie Johns, 74, of RD 1, Salem, received a slight concussion and bruises of the body when the southbound car she was riding in, driven by her son, John C. Johns, 46, was struck from the rear by an auto being driven by Howard C. Sethman, 25, of Lorain.

According to state patrolmen, Sethman apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his car before the crash occurred. Both autos were heavily damaged, patrolmen said. Sethman was cited by patrolmen for reckless operation.

In one other highway mishap Friday, on the Township Line Road four miles west of Route 9, at 1:30 p.m., an eastbound pickup truck operated by Alfred A. Arnold, 27, of Lisbon, collided with an eastbound car operated by Earl E. Saner, 60, of RD 1, Homeworth.

According to patrolmen, the accident occurred when Arnold drove his truck over a blind hill crest and hit the Saner car as it was being turned into a private drive. Damage to both vehicles was minor.

Bible Words for Today

JOHN 15:4-5—"Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me.... for without me ye can do nothing."

Though only three, Timmy is the most independent little fellow I've ever met. When he came to the house he insisted on opening the door himself. He wiggled out of his coat unassisted, scrambled up on a chair all alone. And nobody dared to cut his ham or butter his bread for him. His parents noted proudly, "And he won't even be four until next month."

"Oh, can I help you celebrate your birthday, Timmy?" I asked.

"No thanks," came his prompt reply, "I can do it myself."

We all laughed heartily. But I pondered, too. So soon can a child outgrow the parental relationship. So consistently can a person assert his self-sufficiency, even to the point of being ridiculous.

Indeed, how very like the essence of sin! Such is the pride which alienates the creature from his Creator. God may smile, but more likely He weeps, to see His children cockily strike out for themselves, disavowing their dependence upon Him. For in so doing they accuse as a liar Him Who said, "Without me ye can do nothing."

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Living To A Ripe Old Age

Have you seen those interesting advertisements for the new automobiles featuring safety belts, padded instrument panels and other features to protect the driver and his passengers in the event of accident?

Dr. Peale

These are all much-needed improvements, but an even better way to protect every driver and every passenger is for everyone to make a real effort to avoid accidents altogether. That's quite a job because there were nearly ten million accidents in the United States in 1954. 36,000 people lost their lives in these mishaps and 1,250,000 were disabled more than one day. Of course, the cost of these accidents mounted into the billions of dollars.

Shocking, isn't it? That's why the President's Committee for Traffic Safety has designated this next Thursday, December 1, as "SD Day" or Safe Driving Day, to remind the public of the importance of this subject.

Psychologists and psychiatrists trace many accidents to disturbed and worried minds. Driving a powerful automobile is a strain and traffic today would even as the old saying goes, try the patience of a saint.

A New York surgeon and authority on psychosomatic medicine, Dr. Lester L. Coleman, has discovered one solution to this problem. He carries a Bible in the glove compartment of his car. When he is caught in a traffic jam, or sometimes even when stopped by a red light, he takes out the Bible and reads a short passage. He finds that this not only reduces irritation, but carries him away from the immediate problems of coping with traffic. When the cars begin to move again, he is relaxed and his driving efficiency is stepped up. He is in full control of himself and so able to drive more carefully and safely.

Dr. Coleman's technique is one all of us might try with good results. Traffic being what it is, we can get in not a little Bible reading that way.

Another technique was recommended in a sermon by a minister who had been shocked by the number of accidents people in his congregation had going to and from church. He told his congregation to continue the hymn singing in their cars going home and gave them a suggested list of hymns and songs. At 45 miles an hour he advised "Highways Are Happy Ways." At 55, he recommended, "I'm But a Stranger Here; Heaven Is My Home," and at 65, "Nearer My God to Thee." For 75 mile speed he thought "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder, I'll Be There" just right. And his final choice for 85 miles an hour was "Lord I'm Coming Home."

His remarks were, of course, intended to be facetious, but I'm sure his listeners got his point.

THERE IS ONE simple practice often overlooked these days, and it's unfortunate too, since it is almost magical how it can prevent accidents, and that is just plain politeness. I talked with a man who had never had even a minor accident in 25 years of driving. "What is your secret?" I asked.

"It's very simple," he replied. "Just two rules. Obey the traffic laws to the letter and always be polite."

That is a very commonsense policy. Traffic regulations are developed out of long experience and are not designed to hamper you, but rather to protect you and expedite your movements. As for politeness, it's simply the employment of the most sensible rule of life ever made. "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise."

If you want to live to a ripe old age, this is one way to do it.

In ancient Babylonia and Assyria, brides were auctioned once a year in front of the temple, the price for beautiful girls being turned over to the less beautiful as dowries, so that every girl eventually found a husband.

Farm Bureau Meets Monday

Ohio Federation Set For 37th Convention

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Against a backdrop of sagging farm prices and controversies over possible remedies, the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation opens its 37th annual meeting in Columbus Monday.

The meeting will continue through Wednesday with Republican Harold Stassen, presidential disarmament assistant, and Sen. Albert Gore (D - Tenn) as top speakers.

Some 300 delegates will attend.

Sen. Gore will address them Monday night on "Our Farm Problems." While Stassen's Tuesday night address is scheduled on the topic "Building World Peace," Farm Bureau officials expect he may swing over to farm questions if he feels Gore's earlier remarks require a reply.

Also on the speaker list is Sen. C. Stanley Mechem (R-Athens), president pro tem of the Ohio Senate. He will address a legislative breakfast Tuesday.

Reading and discussion of a series of resolutions covering a wide range of subjects will open the meeting Monday afternoon. Final action on resolutions will be taken during a delegate session Wednesday.

D. R. Stanfield, the Ohio Farm Bureau's executive secretary, says he expects most of the heat at the annual meeting to be generated over issues related to farm prices and the federal farm program.

Stanfield doubts if Ohio Farm Bureau members are ready to scrap the Eisenhower administration's flexible farm price support program. But, he adds, there is feeling in favor of revisions to supplement it.

Certain to be considered among farm program supplements is a proposal to establish a so-called "soil fertility bank" in the nation. Under such a program, the government would pay farmers during food surplus periods to take certain portions of their land out of "active" production. During the land's idleness, farmers would use good soil conservation to put it in good shape for use when needed.

STRIKE PROVES COSTLY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp. employees here have lost more than $2,131,000 in wages since the strike started Oct. 16, company works manager E. L. Smith said yesterday.

He termed a five-year contract offer by Westinghouse "equal in value" to one which the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers accepted at General Electric.

Mel Harter, vice president of Local 746, said the five-year pact did not offer a wage scale equal to General Electric's. Meanwhile, national negotiations were scheduled to resume Monday at New York City.

Juvenile Center Is Quarantined For Diphtheria

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Franklin County's Juvenile Center today was under quarantine after an old-fashioned child killer claimed two recent occupants, a brother and his tiny sister.

Diphtheria caused the deaths of Joseph Ray, 6, on Wednesday and his little sister, Teresa, 3, yesterday, first deaths recorded from diphtheria here since 1947, when two persons died.

The Ray children had spent three days earlier this month at the center after Policewoman Margaret Wood reported they were being left alone at home. Double funeral services were scheduled here today.

Dr. Richard Wenzel, chief of the communicable disease division of the city health department, said tests were run on the 63 children and members of the staff at the center. He said some results might be available later today.

The doctor said few diphtheria deaths have been recorded recently because "80 to 90 per cent of the child population is immunized."

He said most children receive the basic immunization during their first year, then later receive two booster shots. He added that most schools require children be immunized before starting classes.

In some cases, he said, schools may allow children who have not been immunized to start classes if arrangements have been made for the youngsters to get the shots.

He said the Ray children did not attend school when the disease was in the communicable stage. He referred to Joseph and his sister Mary, 8, now in a hospital isolation ward with another sister, Susan, 5. Dr. Wenzel said earlier tests on the other two Ray children showed they had not contracted diphtheria.

While visitors were barred at the Juvenile Center, Dr. Wenzel said his staff also is trying to reach all others who may have had close contact with the Ray family. The father, Emery, works as a pumber's helper in a shop below the family's living quarters.

Diphtheria, Dr. Wenzel said, is a contagious disease that can be spread "like a cold, from droplets in the nose and throat." He said it attacks air passages and the heart muscle. It can become deadly, he added, when the germ lodges in a "highly susceptible child."

Through the Centuries...

Through cold, snow-covered fields, underneath ice-encrusted trees, the river runs its course.

This brings to mind the Christian Church. It was founded upon the teachings of Jesus who lived His life and did His work unperturbed by the coldness of many of His fellowmen and of the ruling officials. He knew that His work would stand because it was founded upon truth. It not only stood, but has flowed steadily on for centuries. It is still going on today in His churches.

If you do not attend church services why not go this coming Sunday, and identify yourself with this steady flow of the best for which life stands?

There is always room in the river for one more drop of water. There is always room in the Church for one more worshipper.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Educational Problem

The acute education problem confronting the country will be the topic of discussion at the White House Conference on Education in Washington Nov. 28-Dec. 1.

The conference will climax the greatest study by citizens of their schools in the annals of public education in the United States.

Forerunners in Ohio were 88 county conferences and a state conference at which summaries of findings were drafted for presentation at the national level.

The crisis in education stems largely from classroom and teacher shortages. Conditions vary over the country. Some areas are more critically affected than others, but almost all that will strain the budgets of even the best financed school districts.

The 2,000 delegates to the White House Conference will address themselves to six questions, all of which have been explored on the local and state levels. They are:

1. What should our schools accomplish?
2. In what way can we organize our school systems more efficiently and economically?
3. What are our school building needs?
4. How can we get enough good teachers—and keep them?
5. How can we finance our schools—build and operate them?
6. How can we obtain a continuing public interest in education?

These questions are interrelated and to a considerable extent of equal importance. However, public attention has tended to focus on the most tangible issue—how to meet the cost of building hundreds of thousands of new classrooms.

The pros and cons of large-scale federal aid for school construction are bound to come in for considerable discussion.

If the White House Conference does nothing more than arouse a citizen appreciation for the problem, it will have served a useful purpose. More money will have to come from somewhere. Just where, we must decide within the next couple of years.

Snow Justice

As the season's first snow approaches, there is no end to the downcast faces and the grumbling about the long months of discomfort and inconvenience that lie ahead.

Not the least of winter's problems is keeping the family automobile running. This involves initial outlays for "winterizing" the engine and radiator, for snow tires or chains. And little quirks which meant nothing in summer must be fixed before cold weather turns them into major ailments.

But that isn't all. When "real" winter sets in, here is the harrassment of morning struggling with balky motors; the bitterness of chipping ice from windshields when the car must sit out; the nuisance of wiping, wiping, wiping when the defrosters won't clear the steam inside; the frustration of getting from here to there when the snow is too deep or the ice too slick for special tires and chains; the labor of washing, waxing and oiling to protect exterior gleam from the corrosion of salt.

There is, of course, one thing about snow we all like—its beauty. But consider what havoc daily traffic plays with that!

The plain fact is this: Snow was not made for the auto age.

But when we consider which of the two was here first, can we honestly blame the innocent snowflake?

Year-Around School

The idea of eliminating the summer school vacation or otherwise altering the school year for children is nothing new but renewed consideration is bound to be given the plan following the proposal of State Director of Education R. M. Eymann to have the schools open all year with the pupils taking their vacations at different times.

Under the proposed program pupils would still attend school for nine months out of the year but their vacations would be staggered so that all would not be out during the summer months.

The chief argument in favor of such a system is that it would enable present school facilities which are bursting at the seams to accommodate one-third more children.

No doubt other factors in support of the idea will be developed and presented to the public in the next few months and it will be interesting to see what sort of reception they receive.

A first glance it seems as though there will be a tremendous amount of inertia to overcome to achieve such a change. For instance, parents in agricultural areas like to have their children at home during the summer to help with work on the farms.

However, Americans have approved of more startling changes in their way of life to meet new conditions and this one, too, may be adopted eventually.

Religion In And On The Job

Measuring Success

By EUGENE CARR

Some weeks ago a reader of this column said he had come to the conclusion that God did not want him to be a success in life. According to this man, he had tried every means within his power to make something out of himself but had failed.

He now has what he described as an ordinary job at which he works hard eight hours a day to barely earn a living for himself and family. He is greatly concerned over some of the ends of his children in the years ahead.

He wrote frankly about his faith in God, his belief in prayer, and his daily effort to live a good life. He insisted he is not bitter or disillusioned over his situation, but he cannot understand why things have not worked out better. He had decided he wasn't meant for what he called "success."

The letter revealed a number of things about the writer which, apparently, are more favorable than he realizes.

First of all, he left school at an early age and "just worked around." He has not at any time cultivated a specific skill or developed himself in a particular line of work.

Secondly, he was out of a job for some time earlier this year, with little or no income and during this period he was quite ill.

Finally, the work he is doing today has put him in better physical condition than in years, and, at least, he is bringing home a paycheck every week and providing his family with a living. This man could very well be more fortunate than he thinks. Without special training or education, he is still making his way in a highly specialized world. And today, he is once again in good health, and is far better off economically than a few months ago when he had no job at all.

Sinclair believes God directs the affairs of his life, he has every reason to believe he is getting good direction. By comparison, he is more successful than many people whose advantages have been greater.

We should remember, when faced with a situation of this sort, that God wants all of us to succeed, but the success He wants for us has nothing to do with the jobs we hold or the money we earn. God's standard of success is based on the lives we live, not how we manage to live.

We do not fail simply because some wish or want or plan of our own making does not work out. Perhaps our deserts are not what God wants for us at all.

The means within our personal power to accomplish our objectives are subject to a Supreme Power that will not be denied. Whatever the effect of that Power in our lives, we may as well accept it.

If our faith is strong and sure and sincere, day by day, that same brand of faith will see us through the days that are yet to come.

Issue Of Need Or Greed

By DAVID LAWRENCE

The farm issue is going to play a vital part in the 1956 campaign. That seems certain now from the speeches being made by the leading candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination.

It isn't going to be a one-sided debate, and the issue could boom or crash for the Democrats in the city vote and cause them to lose more than they expect to gain, especially if they intend to send upward the cost of living for the housewife.

A hint of one aspect of the farm issue that has not hitherto been emphasized very much came the other day from the National Grange, one of the leading farm organizations of the country. A resolution considered at its annual meeting pointed out that one of the real difficulties is the rising cost of the things the farmer has to buy, and that among the causes of this is the irresponsibility of the labor leadership which has forced up the wage scale on the basis of all the traffic will bear without regard to the impact on the consumer.

It is the Democratic party which has given the biggest encouragement to the labor-union bosses and helped to develop their economic power amounting to a monopoly. It is the labor-union negotiators who today can threaten a costly strike and force employers to pay almost any wages demanded. The penalty for refusal is a work stoppage too expensive for even the largest employers to bear.

IN BRITAIN already there is talk of legislation to curb labor-union monopolies. The London Times the other day had an editorial on the subject and, while pointing out the difficulties in regarding a labor union like a corporation, nevertheless urged that some sort of self-restraint be applied.

In America there is a creeping inflation today because the labor-union leaders have forced the manufacturers to add to their prices the cost to them of wage hikes. The theory that the employer can absorb all labor costs out of profits is now demolished because profits are made public, and it is easy enough to compute the approximate cost of every wage advance proposed.

The idea of a balanced economy, in which wages will advance in harmony with other items in the economic structure as productivity is increased, is not much honored by the labor leaders of today who have gotten themselves into the position of demanding more and more wage increases irrespective of what it does to the national economy.

DUE TO PENT-UP demand for goods over the years when war controls were applied, there is today an exceptional era of prosperity. Profits are big, but business is using those profits largely to build new plant and equipment, which will mean more production and perhaps more jobs in the long run. If wage increases, however, are to go on without any regard to their impact on the economy, it will bring on a gigantic depression in another year or two after the present demand for goods is satisfied and surpluses begin to pile up.

Agricultural surplus has always been the basic factor in the farm issue. The Democrats have sought to meet it by letting the government buy up the surpluses and store them.

This program has cost the taxpayers of the nation more than 7 billion dollars—a total that continues to mount despite controls on planting. These commodities still hang over the market like a sword of Damocles. If the government tried to dispose of them on the world market—even if there were plenty of buyers abroad, which isn't the case because of the high cost of ocean transportation—the domestic prices would fall still further.

ACREAGE CONTROL have been tried as a means of limiting production and helping prices to stay high. But, with improved methods, the farmer's output is almost the same as when fewer acres were planted. The Democrats have gotten behind the proposal to maintain a rigid price support at 90 per cent of parity. But parity is a ratio which has to do with the scale of prices of the things the farmer buys. Rigid price support means then that, as the prices go higher, output rises and the government must buy more and more commodities to waste away in storage. The answer of the Democrats—rigid price supports—sounds good to some farmers who think it doesn't make any difference how many billions are spent by the government to store unused products.

THE LAW OF SUPPLY and demand can never be repealed even by the periodic intervention of the government. Also, a "guaranteed annual wage" for labor—based on work not done—leads to a demand for a guaranteed annual income based on farm commodities not planted. This means a guaranteed price for products based on commodities not sold but stored in warehouses.

The answer to the farm problem, as it is to the wage problem, is "moderation." That's a word Gov. Harriman and the extremists are denouncing. But it's the key to many issues in the nation as well as in the world. For, as has often been said, "There's enough in the world for everybody's need but not enough for everybody's greed."

SIDE GLANCES

Let's Get On With the Sale, Boys. Make Me an Offer!

The Silly Season

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

As there are no official candidates for the presidency, the unofficial candidates, those who are moving into place for notice, are more than a few.

Adlai Stevenson, at present the only announced contender for the Democratic nomination, has pronounced in favor of moderation, which is a logical appraisal of the situation. Just as the country is unwilling to return to the social and economic status prior to 1932, it is also weary of the socialism of the New Deal. They have had that and do not like it.

Stevenson would seem to indicate that he opposes moderation, but as Harriman avoids declaring himself a candidate, he still has ample time to canvass public opinion to determine where he stands on the subject of moderation.

Stevenson HAS taken his stand: such other Democratic contenders as may appear will go to the right or to the left of him depending upon where they hope to get their support.

Few men have the courage to stand entirely on their own; they lead battalions and compromise with the varieties of view among those who sustain them.

Stevenson, Harriman and all the others in the Democratic party are bound to seek friends in the American Federation of Labor, the CIO, and the so-called minority groups. Their publicized views need not be their own; they are more likely to be a composite or a compromise.

As for the general criticism of the Eisenhower foreign policy, the less the Democrats say now, the less they will have to explain away when the debate between the two parties becomes rally unpleasant. The Democrats cooked up the mess which the Eisenhower administration has been trying to do something about.

THE FILES ARE in the possession of John Foster Dulles who can make much public that would startle the world. The Tehran and Potsdam Conferences are still secret although they occurred 12 and 10 years ago. The Eisenhower administration can defend its conduct no better than to show what it found when it took office. It could be devastating.

The argument that we have lost our friends since Eisenhower became President can only be sustained by evidence that those who we lost were our friends before he took office. Bought friendship wears lightly and usually continues only as long as the purchase price continues to be paid. Its measure is the phrase: "What have you done for me recently?"

Such friends, at such a price, are not worth keeping. Most of them fell away when we lost the Korean War. President Eisenhower did not lose the Korean War.

IF THE DEMOCRATS are itching to have Gen. Douglas MacArthur in this political battle, all they need to do is say, "Korea!" That will make MacArthur jump and he will land on them with both feet.

On the other hand, Harold Stassen's intervention in this quarrel with his two-cent statement that the Democrats are hurting the United States in Europe is old stuff.

The Democrats used that argument when they were in power. It never stopped a Republican from criticizing Dean Acheson and his policies. It will not stop the debate on the conduct of our foreign policy. Nobody wants to stop it except those who believe that free discussion hurts them as individuals.

IF THE EUROPEANS cannot take free discussion in this country during an election year, it is just too bad. They do not mind saying anything they choose to say about us whenever it suits their purposes. Therefore, we shall go on debating from now until next November when the election will be held.

Our Constitution requires a presidential election to take place every four years and we cannot postpone and never have postponed an election to suit anybody.

It is being suggested in Democratic circles that if Stevenson runs for President, it will be advisable to nominate as vice president someone from the eastern states and preferably someone who is a Roman Catholic. The two names most bruited are Robert F. Wagner, Mayor of New York, and John F. Kennedy, senator from Massachusetts. Both are available and would not reject the honor.

Both are in the public eye and have taken public positions which make them of political interest. Both are young, personable and oratorical. Kennedy is also rich which sometimes is an advantage.

Political Illiteracy

By RAYMOND MOLEY

In his speech when inaugurated as president of Teachers College of Columbia University, Dr. Hollis L. Caswell said:

"It is essential that people be aware of the source and nature of the values which democracy represents; it is necessary for them to know of the conditions out of which democratic ideals grew; it is important that they see clearly how democracy can be undermined; it is imperative that through such understanding they develop an emotional commitment to these values that will stimulate action to preserve and foster them."

This pledge if kept will be a welcome innovation in American education, because there is almost everywhere, especially in schools dedicated to the "new" look in education, a deplorable failure to teach our children how they are governed and why.

In the horse-and-buggy days there was a serious effort to teach what used to be called "civics" and "civil government." But about 30 years ago these vital subjects were supplanted almost everywhere with a sugar-coated concoction called "social studies" or "current events."

This has degenerated in many places into a mixture of superficialities plentifully mixed with propaganda. The result is that we are raising a nation with a high rate of political illiteracy.

In the numerous years when I was teaching college and university students some of the elements of American Government, I found that the best assumption I could make was that students coming from even the better schools knew little or nothing of how they were governed in the nation, state, or community. They were, however, plentifully equipped with opinions, mostly unsubstantiated by real knowledge.

Recently a parent who is spending something like $1,000 a year tuition for her ninth-grade child in a well-known private school in New York came to me for advice on a matter which was giving her a great deal of trouble. It seems that in the class in "current events" the teacher had required the children to see and hear a long film presentation of Edward R. Murrow's celebrated interview with Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer. She asked me if I would ask her daughter some questions about fundamentals concerning the government under which she was going to live.

I asked the girl whether she knew anything about the Bill of Rights. She knew nothing of the Bill of Rights.

When I said the Bill of Rights included a number of amendments, her eyes lighted up. She said, "Oh, yes. Taking the Fifth Amendment means you don't have to answer questions because of self-incrimination."

I asked whether she had ever read the Fifth Amendment, "No."

Going further into the Fifth Amendment, I asked the meaning of "jeopardy." A shake of the head. I asked whether she had heard about taking property without due process of law. "No." How many amendments are there? Didn't know.

What does the First Amendment deal with? She didn't know. Or any other amendment? Same answer.

Were the first ten amendments added when the Constitution was written? Didn't know.

And so on.

Further questioning revealed that she knew a considerable smattering about the United Nations, about the revolution in Argentina, and a few other scattered bits that had appeared in the news.

Ambassador Lodge had been at the school to tell all about the U.N., but not much of what he said remained in her mind. It was probably not very important in any event.

In another week or two her class is going to troop down to see all the nice flags and funny costumes at the U.N.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

There is a split in the Republican party over whether or not there is a split in the Republican party.

The highest Republican policy makers are discussing the woe of the "labor vote." Some say this discussion will split the White House from more conservative Republican leaders who want to take on labor in a showdown fight.

The White House and sources very close to Labor Secretary James Mitchell say there is no real difference of opinion. They say that the administration will continue to be as friendly to labor as labor makes it possible. They believe that there will be a big labor vote for the next Republican presidential candidate. And that there will even be many important labor leaders endorsing the GOP nominee.

There are White House sources which even go as far as to predict that the AFL-CIO itself will not endorse a Democratic candidate as the AFL and CIO did in 1952.

THIS MEANS that Labor Secretary Mitchell and the President will continue to pledge friendship to labor — especially on Dec. 6, when Mitchell shares the platform with Gov. Averell Harriman in the AFL-CIO merger convention.

It is known that Labor Secretary Mitchell believes that many regional and local union leaders will back the Eisenhower administration. It is reported that he was told as much while on the west coast recently — when among other things he toured an AFL Sailors' union headquarters.

There are those on the other hand — the right hand — of the Republican party which say there is a split, very definitely.

They say that the Republican party cannot expect labor leaders to back it or to get labor votes.

SO THEY HAVE DECIDED to open a heavy attack on the union chiefs, their political committees, their manpower and their financing of radio, television, newspaper and precinct political activity.

This bloc in the Republican party says it is weary of a friendly approach to the labor officials. This group is determined to take the making of Republican labor policy from both Mitchell and the White House staff.

This is the sentiment among the businessmen who for two and a half years have disagreed with the friendly approach of the White House to the unions. Now the businessmen are determined to speak up publicly, personally — and through their friends on the Hill.

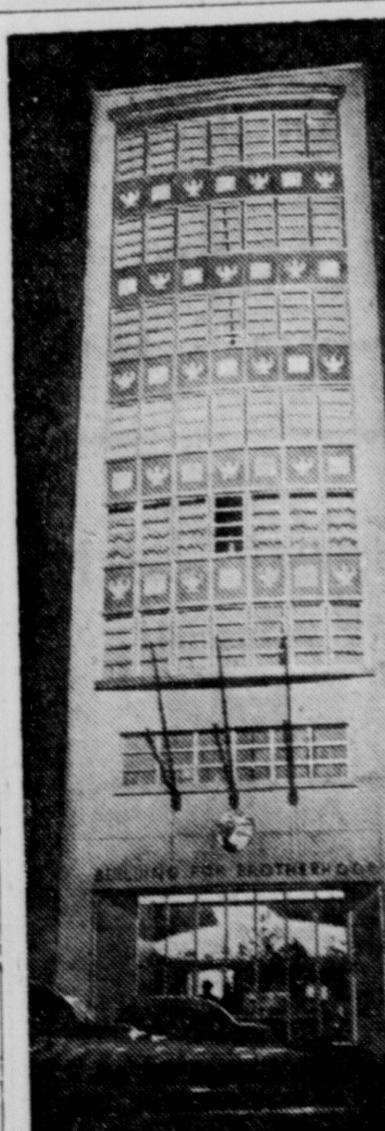

THIS ACCOUNTS for the off-the-record demands for a Treasury Department investigation of labor leaders' personal income.

This angry determination also accounts for the pressure on the government to establish whether or not the unions can legally spend money for political radio and TV broadcasts.

This accounts for the recent revelation that labor spent nearly 2 million dollars during the 1954 campaign — virtually every copper for the Democrats.

The most outspoken Republican has been Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater, who has been keeping an eye on labor activity in his own state—and its coalition with the Democratic party throughout the country.

go a roundhouse swing with this quote, which pretty much sets policy for those in the GOP opposed to wooing the union chiefs:

"It is my belief that the political freedom of the working man and woman of America is in great jeopardy. This is the crux of my position on the vital issue of expenditures of union funds for political purposes.

"In my opinion the usurpation of political power by some top union leaders is denying to millions of rank-and-file workers the right to make their own decisions.

"I have absolutely no quarrel with rank-and-file labor... I have confidence that the great body of American labor will resist the ambitions of the Reuther of labor to compress them into a controlled voting bloc."

WE'LL SOON KNOW if there really is a split. Labor Secretary Mitchell plans to see Sen. Goldwater. The cabinet member believes that there is no split. Mitchell thinks that all Republicans will agree that there is strong pro-GOP sentiment inside labor, just beneath the top national union leadership — and that this second line labor leadership should not be blasted.

After that parley we'll know if the GOP will stop wooing the labor vote.

Lasagne Rollups Are Tasty

Mozzarella cheese is a basic ingredient of such popular Italian dishes as pizza and lasagne. You could always get it in large cities where it was delivered daily like other dairy products. But today you can get it anywhere. It is wrapped in cryovac which vacuum-seals it in a plastic bag that shrinks to fit the cheese tightly. Then it can be shipped thousands of miles in refrigerated cars, its fresh flavor locked in.

Mrs. Frances S. Lauda, of Port Washington, N.Y., is a lover of Italian food. She made some of her quick lasagne roll-ups for us using liberal amounts of cryovac-wrapped Mozzarella cheese. This is her recipe.

Quick Lasagne Roll-Ups
Eight ounces curly-edge lasagne, 3 quarts boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, dash basil, salt and pepper to taste, 1/2 pound Mozzarella cheese, 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese.

Into rapidly boiling salted water place lasagne, 1 strip at a time. Boil, stirring occasionally, 15 to 20 minutes, until barely soft. Drain then rinse in cold water to prevent sticking.

Combine tomato sauce with chopped onion, basil, salt and pepper. Slice Mozzarella thin. Place strips of lasagne on board. Spread with tomato sauce, cover with Mozzarella and roll from end to end. Place in baking dish and pour remaining sauce over all. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake at 350 degrees F. (moderate oven) 20 minutes or until cheese is melted and beginning to brown.

Mrs. Lauda recommends this Italian snack also. Use French or Italian bread, cut into 4-inch chunks. Make several deep diagonal slices in each chunk, fill the

U.N. Won't Encourage Wine Drinking

ROME (AP)—The U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization has side-stepped the question of encouraging wine drinking.

The maneuver came Friday when the FAO voted to recommend that its 71 member nations adopt policies to encourage trade in "grapes and grape products."

The original resolution before the organization read "grapes and wine" instead of "grapes and grape products." It was warmly supported by such winemaking countries as France, Spain, Italy, Belgium, Germany and Greece.

The grape products term was substituted after Nazir Ahmad of Pakistan asked:

"I wonder if it would be appropriate for the FAO to be promoting drunkenness in the world?"

A British delegate, referring to the matter as a social problem said he didn't see how, as a representative of Britain's government, he could go on record favoring an increased consumption of wine.

Norway and Sweden also opposed the original resolution. Michel Cepede of France and other delegates from wine-producing lands defended the inclusion of wine as an important agricultural product.

Cepede commented that wine and other products like tobacco, tea and coffee were the base of "a certain number of agreeable things in modern civilization."

The compromise wording making the resolution read "grape products" was proposed by U Thet Su of Burma.

Army-Navy Game Takes Spotlight Today; Middies Favored

Lause Beats Gene Fullmer

Scores Decision In Bruising Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—Eduardo Lause wants Bobo Olson. Gene Fullmer wants Lause again. And the fans want to see more of both middleweights.

That's the situation after Friday night's 10-round match at Madison Square Garden in which Lause won a unanimous decision over the "Cyclone" from West Jordan, Utah.

Referee Mark Conn and Judge Joe Agnello scored it 7-3 and Judge Bert Grant 6-3-1, all for Lause. The AP ringside card also had it 7-3 for the scowling South American who now has won 30 straight.

Fullmer neutralized Lause's left hook in the early stages by scuttling in and out of a shell defense with crisp counter punches. He kept moving to his left in clockwise fashion, away from the hook that has helped Lause knock out 48 men while compiling a 60-6-2 record.

When Lause switched from left hook to right hand he began to penetrate Fullmer's defense. It was a long right to the head that first hurt Fullmer in the fourth. Fullmer had been out front, winning two of the first three on all cards and shaking up Lause with a right to the whiskers in the third.

Fullmer won the fifth in which Lause suffered a cut over his right eye but on this scorecard Lause won the rest of the scrap. The 28-year-old slugger from Buenos Aires handed out the heavier punishment as they matched punches in many toe-to-toe flurries.

In the eighth round, Lause, 159½, dropped Fullmer, 156¾, with a left hook. Although the knockdown counted as high as "four," Referee Conn ruled no knockdown. Later he said it was "a stumble, half off balance."

Most ringsiders thought it was a legitimate knockdown.

"I like to fight Olson," said Lause through an interpreter. "He comes in. I know I beat him. Fullmer strong boy. Takes good punch. I knock him down clean. I see his eyes cross when I hit him."

Fullmer thought he won it "about 6-4" and figured he outboxed Lause who was "aiming too high." He would like to fight Lause again or anybody else.

Boston Trade Looks Good To Yankees
NEW YORK (AP)—Aired the New York Yankees worried about the trade that sent Larry Doby to the Chicago White Sox and Chico Carrasquel and Jim Busby to the Cleveland Indians?

Not in the least, said Yank General Manager George Weiss, who returned from the Orient today.

What does have the boss of the American League pennant winner worried, though, is the deal in which the Boston Red Sox acquired Bob Porterfield and Mickey Vernon from the Washington Senators for a flock of rookies.

"Right now, I must say that Boston got all the better of the deal if Vernon and Porterfield don't go in to a complete collapse. Of course, there are 'ifs.' Vernon is 38 years old and Porterfield is a little bit on the other side.

"But if Vernon comes up with another good year, and Porterfield returns to his form of a couple of seasons ago, Boston will be dangerous—right in there with Cleveland which also has a few problems. The Red Sox got a fine hitter and a real good pitcher and they didn't give up anyone who was going to be much help next year."

Navy Win May Bring Bowl Bid

Oklahoma Aims For 2nd National Title

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Navy and Army, kings for a day at least, took the spotlight in the "Big" game of the season today while Oklahoma and a half dozen or so other teams settled such "minor" matters as the national championship, conference titles and bowl berths in college football's last big scene of the year.

Cloudy skies—but no rain or snow—and a Navy victory were expected at Philadelphia in the 56th clash between the service academies. The bowl business played a part in this one, too, with Navy expected to get a Cotton Bowl bid with a victory.

It figured to be a match between herded George Welsh and Army's much-scooped Don Hollader, who's a first classman at West Point but only a plebe at quarter, having been shifted from end.

If the Middies are beaten, or decline an invitation, the Cotton Bowl berth opposite Texas Christian will be filled by either Mississippi, Georgia Tech, Auburn or Vanderbilt—all scrapping for the Southeastern Conference crown, or a share of it, in regular season windups today.

All four also were listed as possible Sugar Bowl foes for Pitt, should any or all miss out on the Cotton Bowl berth.

So with bowl selectors and scouts from idle Pitt in the stands, Mississippi played Mississippi State, Tech met Georgia, Auburn wheeled against winless Alabama and Vandy made its bid against Tennessee.

Ol' Miss is the defending champ and could win again with a victory. Last season Mississippi used the crown for a Sugar Bowl pass, but lost to Navy 21-0.

Oklahoma, meanwhile, meant to make cross-state rival Oklahoma A&M its 29th straight victim, aiming for a convincing victory that could bring the Sooners their second national championship in five years. The title, signified by the O'Donnell trophy, is determined by next week's final Associated Press poll.

The Sooners already have their 10th straight big 7 title in the bag along with an Orange Bowl date against Maryland. The Terps, No. 3 in the nation, have completed their season and rank with Oklahoma as the only major unbeaten-untied teams left.

The Rose Bowl foes, UCLA and Michigan State, also have completed their seasons.

TCU had the Southwest Conference title to win in a regular-season closer with Southern Methodist. The Horned Frogs secured the Cotton Bowl trip last week.

Notre Dame, No. 5 but not interested in bowls, was on the Pacific Coast for another of its intersectional meetings with Southern California.

The Border Conference also had a championship to decide. First place Arizona State (Tempe) played Arizona while runnerup Texas Tech met Hardin-Simmons.

Other major games included Boston College-Holy Cross, Baylor-Rice, Tulane-Louisiana State, Clemson-Furman, Florida-Miami, Fla. South Carolina - Virginia, Brigham Young - New Mexico and Colorado-Colorado A&M.

Sunday it's Villanova at Dayton. West Virginia, a bowl hopeful until dumped by Pitt and Syracuse, got the final big weekend rolling Friday night. The Mountaineers uncorked their second half touchdown drives to beat North Carolina State 27-7. Halfback Joe Marconia scored two TDs in the final quarter.

Mississippi Southern banged Florida State 21-6, giving up just 53 rushing yards.

Navy Pits Air Arm Against Army's Backs

By ORLO ROBERTSON

PHILADELPHIA — Favorite Navy pits its well balanced attack geared to the throwing arm of George Welsh against Army's rapier backs today in the 56th renewal of their football feud before a capacity house of 102,000 at Municipal Stadium.

After making a forecast of rain and possibly snow, the weather man changed his mind late Friday night and came up with a prediction that it'll be cloudy with temperatures in the 40s when the opening kickoff comes at 12:30 p.m. (CST). The colorful spectacle will be televised nationally (NBC).

Navy is a one-touchdown favorite, on the strength of the Welsh quarterbacking and its better seasonal record, but in these service classics anything goes—and usually does. In these games nothing is predictable.

A possible Navy bowl bid, just as a year ago, depended on the outcome. In 1954, after whipping Army 27-20, Navy broke a 30-year precedent and accepted an invitation to play in the Sugar Bowl, where the Middies defeated Mississippi 21-0.

Today representatives of the Cotton Bowl were in the stands ready, it was reliably reported, to extend the Middies an invitation to meet Texas Christian at Dallas on Jan. 2. Navy officials declined to comment. Army has said repeatedly it is not interested in a post-season game.

Both coaches expressed hope the weatherman's promise of a dry field would hold up as they whipped their charges through light drills on the Stadium turf Friday.

Eddie Erdelatz, head coach of the Midshipmen, hoped for fast turf so that Welsh would be able to operate as a passer and runner.

Earl Blaik, who has managed to whip the Middies only once in Erdelatz's five years at Navy, said Army also needs a fast field to operate at top peak. Blaik is blessed with a host of fast break-away backs, including Pat Uebel, Bob Kyasky and Mike Zeigler.

Ohio State Leads In Dinghy Races

CHICAGO (AP)—Ohio State jumped into the lead in the Midwestern intercollegiate dinghy championships yesterday.

Buckeye skippers Dick Durfee and Tom Driskell won two races and placed second in three to pile up 123 points.

Twenty two more races will be held today and tomorrow to determine the championship.

Defending champion Ohio Wesleyan and Illinois Tech were tied for fourth with 110 points each.

Bears Seek To Widen Lead

Redskins Hope To Close In On Browns

The old-look Chicago Bears try to widen their slim Western Conference lead and the new-look Washington Redskins attempt to close in on the Eastern top spot Sunday in a pair of headline games in the National Football League.

The Bears, looking more and more like the big, bad ruins of the past, pit their six-game winning streak against their cross-town rivals, the Cardinals, who have lost two in a row.

Washington, meanwhile, goes for No. 4 in a row, meeting the once-hopeful Pittsburgh Steelers, who have lost four straight.

San Francisco is at Baltimore and Cleveland at New York.

The Bears and the Redskins need a winning parlay to make their points.

If the Bears can couple an expected victory over the Cards with a Philadelphia decision over the Los Angeles Rams, the Bruins may have the Western title packed away. That would leave the Bears at 7-3 and the runnerup Rams 5-4-1 with two games remaining for both.

Washington, looking like a contender for a change, could share the Eastern lead with Cleveland—if the New York Giants can keep their new-found offense on the move against the Browns. Going into the games, Cleveland is 7-2, Washington 6-3.

The Bears, riding high on the pass-catch combination of Eddie Brown and Harlon Hill, are 15-point favorites although the Cards are the home team.

Philadelphia is a 1-point favorite over the Rams.

Washington is a slight favorite over the Steelers in the game at Pittsburgh.

Cleveland rules a 4-point favorite over the up-and-coming Giants, who may have the long-hobbled Eddie Price ready for the game at the Polo Grounds.

Babe Zaharias Goes Back To Hospital

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Babe Zaharias is going back to a hospital for observation and probably further treatment for cancer.

The queen of golf planned to leave Tampa by plane today to re-enter John Sealy Hospital at Galveston, Tex. She had left there in September with encouraging reports on her response to treatment for her second cancer attack.

Resting at her Tampa home, Mrs. Zaharias continued to show signs of recovery. She looked better, felt better and was able to play a few holes of golf.

About two weeks ago, however, "my hip got to hurting real bad," the Babe said.

She had X-rays taken here and her Tampa physician "didn't like the way they looked."

Friday she talked with her Galveston specialist, Dr. Robert M. Moore, about the X-rays. He instructed her to be ready to re-enter the hospital there Sunday, and to bring the X-rays with her.

Conference Heads Meet

GRANDVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Mid-American Conference leaders today will hold their semi-annual business meeting here. Commissioner Dave Reese of Dayton announced.

He said some football schedules for 1958 and 1959 would be worked out. Colleges represented included Western Michigan, Toledo, Bowling Green, Kent, Miami, Ohio University and Marshall of West Virginia.

Philadelphia — Garnett (Sugar) Hart, 145½, Philadelphia, stopped Roosevelt Coward, 152½, Philadelphia 2.

Leetonia Bears To Open Cage Season Friday

The Leetonia Bears will officially open the 1955-56 basketball season at home Friday when they take on the Salineville quintet, according to Lee Thomas, faculty manager and coach.

Leetonia mentor Thomas is rebuilding this year's team around a foundation of three lettermen, plus a host of reserve players who are moving up to fill varsity positions.

The three holdovers from last year are center John Mandish and guards Richie Cope and Gus Bell. Other members of this year's squad are as follows:

Each of the Leetonia varsity cage contests will be preceded by a reserve tilt beginning at 7 p.m.

Cleveland Readies For New York's Air Attack

CLEVELAND (P)—The New York Giants have a triple threat air attack to use against the Cleveland Browns when they play host to the defending National Football League champions tomorrow at the Polo Grounds.

The Browns will be watching the activity of halfback Frank Gifford with more than usual interest. Although the rangy ex-Southern California ace is known better as a ball carrier around the league, he has thrown passes for touchdowns on his last two visits here.

Reports here say that Coach Jim Lee Howell will start Don Heinrich at quarterback against the Browns instead of the veteran Chuck Conerly. Howell feels that Conerly does a better job after watching the opposition's defense from the sidelines for a series or two of downs.

Conerly has been dueling with Otto Graham of the Browns in the passing competition since Cleveland entered the league in 1960 and has managed to hold his own. During the current campaign Conerly has thrown 10 touchdown passes compared to Graham's seven.

Both teams are in good shape for the game, which is "the big one" for the Browns in the drive for their 10th straight division championship.

Washington Players Fire Blast At Coach

What they said in a statement carrying the names of 30 members of the 50-man Washington squad—was essentially what they told Harvey Cassill, the university's director of athletics, last Monday and Tuesday.

"We do not agree with what is considered by the coach as a successful or unsuccessful season."
"As a freshman coach, Cherberg was respected on and off the field and under no pressure. He appears to be affected now as varsity coach by pressure to win, especially during the season when every game becomes a graduation game," said Grudig.

"He is not constant in expressing his idea of their effort by failing to place personal animosity secondary to team effort. Players have been shocked and befuddled by the coach's reaction under various pressure conditions because of

Cherberg, who has remained silent throughout the week of complaints and charges, broke silence briefly to say:

Finsterwald Leads Miami Beach Open

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Dow Finsterwald went into the second round of the $5,000 West Palm Beach open golf tournament today holding a one-stroke lead on a course that proved more than a match for some of the nation's top golfers.

No player among the field of 80 professionals and 75 amateurs broke par in the opening round Friday. They were shooting the 6,415-yard country club course where par is 36-36-72.

Finsterwald came nearest, succeeding in matching par. He shot the round in 34-38-72.

Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N. Y., a tournament favorite, shot a 73 as did Don Fairfield, Dunedin, Fla.; Leo Biagetti of Sandusky, Ohio; Mike Fetschick of Cincinnati, and a Miami Beach amateur, Martin Stanovich.

Walter Burkemo of Detroit; Clyde Usina Jr. of Palm Beach, Fla.; and Wally Ulrich of Minneapolis were two strokes behind the leader with 74s.

Ike To Watch Game Today On Television

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower is expected to watch the Army-Navy game on television today.

Beyond that, not much weekend activity is in sight at the Gettysburg White House.

Because of his restricted travel schedule, caused by his heart attack, Eisenhower didn't go to Philadelphia for the service classic, and no one was designated to represent him.

He'll be stepping up his pace of activity starting Monday when he confers here with Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall.

Eisenhower is expected soon after Dec. 18 to return his headquarters to Washington, while continuing weekend visits to the farm.

The new high school is conceived as two buildings, with a two-story wing containing 15 academic classrooms, library and administrative suite. Given Day To Live In 1910, Woman Now 101

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Demitra Ge-kas recalled Friday that in 1910 when she suffered from dropsy three doctors gave her 24 hours to live.

"I feel a little guilty about letting them down," said Mrs. Gekas, who observed her 101st birthday anni-versary.

Mrs. Gekas credited her long life to the strenuous years she spent in her native Greece.

"It gave me an iron will and a steel back," her son, Gus, quoted her as saying. She came to the United States in 1930.

lates that the Mayor hold office on a part-time basis, he is consid-ered a part-time official.

The new ordinance, besides giv-ing him additional authority, would increase his salary from $2,400 a year to $4,800 annually to com-pensate him for the additional work involved.

The ordinance will be set up on a two-year basis to give council a chance to decide the worth of the plan.

If the plan doesn't work, it will be discarded and the village will return to the present arrangement, councilmen said.

Salem People Assist In Mt. Union Program

ALLIANCE — Three intensive days of informal talks, discussions, and question periods will form the Christian Life Conference at Mount Union College Wednesday through Friday of next week.

Planned and arranged entirely by more than 100 students in com-mittees, the conference will fea-ture several Alliance area ministers together with the guest speaker, Dr. Henry Hitt Crane of Detroit.

Panelists will include Rev. A. Laten Carter, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Salem, and Rev. Theodore Mayer, district su-pintendent of Methodist church-es.

Students assisting as commit-tees are James Cosgarea of Sa-lem, Joyce Sharp of Sebring and Edward Stevens of Petersburg.

Addicts

and her husband spent as much as $20 a day for drugs. Stallworth, who said he got some yesterday, was asked how he had acquired the money for it.

"I made some money stealing," he said, adding he had stolen cigar-ettes and radios, for which he got about $275 or $300 that he spent on dope.

A mother of four children, Mrs. Jerry Yvonne Tipton, 25, was the first addict to testify. She declared her addiction started at 16 because she was "inquisitive."

Within about three years, the habit was costing her $60 a day, she said, so she turned to pro-stitution to earn the money. She claimed she knew of 100 other Cleveland girls who were driven to prostitution by addiction to nar-cotics.

"The addicts," she said, "I don't think you should put them in hos-pitals. Let them suffer like I did (in jail). It stopped me (from tak-ing heroin)."

Enforcement officers, recom-mending longer prison sentences for drug peddlers, pointed to Ohio's strict new narcotics law.

Regulations enacted last Septem-ber call for maximum 30-year terms for possession of drugs, 10-40 years for possession with intent to sell, 20-40 years for sale, and 30 year to life for supplying narco-tics to minors. Formerly narcotics law violators drew terms of up to five years.

Ohio Attorney-General C. Wil-liam O'Neill, estimating some 15,000 addicts in Ohio were spending 75 million dollars on drugs each year, said he thought the state's narcotics problem largely would be eliminated by the new law.

Mitchell To Run For Governor Of Illinois

PAXTON, Ill. (AP) — Stephen A. Mitchell, former Democratic na-tional chairman, announced today that he will seek his party's nomi-nation for Illinois governor.

Mitchell, a 52-year-old Chicago lawyer, made his announcement in a statement prepared for delivery at a luncheon meeting of some 60 central Illinois Democratic leaders.

His active support of former Chicago Mayor Martin H. Kennedy in 1944 and of Adlai E. Stevenson for governor and Paul H. Douglas for U.S. senator in 1948 led to his dark-horse selection by Stevenson as national Democratic chairman in August 1952. He served as party chairman until Jan. 1 this year.

The committee said Logan is a humorist and has spoken "to hun-dreds of groups throughout Ohio and adjoining states."

Atty. Atkinson Quits Planning Commission

Atty. Ralph Atkinson, in a letter received by Mayor Dean B. Cranmer Friday, resigned his position as member of the City Planning Commission to become effective im-mediately. Atkinson cited disre-gard of the Commission's author-ity as the reason for his resigna-tion.

Atkinson stated that he felt the Michael Baker Jr. Co., engineer-ing firm working on the city's ar-terial highway survey, should not have presented a report to any-one until it had first invited the views of the commission. Accord-ing to Atkinson, the Baker Co. should have first obtained permis-sion from the commission at one of the commission meetings.

Atkinson was referring to last night's session between Baker rep-resentatives and city officials at which the engineers gave a run-down on conclusions reached by their firm on the survey.

Atkinson added, "Mr. Baker has done nothing to dispel my sus-picions—that he has submitted reports and recommendations be-hind our backs to the state and federal authorities. I have already made it plain, first, why I con-sider any such thing fatally prej-udicial to the city's interest, and second, that I will not be a party to the treachery to the city's inter-est which, in my opinion, condon-ing such conduct would amount to."

Atkinson had held the position of secretary while on the commission. His term would have expired in 1958.

Quadruplets Born To Ohio Couple

NORWALK, Ohio (AP)—Quadruplet girls were born early today to Mrs. Margaret Brielh, 25, in nearby Bellevue.

Bellevue Hospital said the babies weigh from 1 1/2 to 3 1/2 pounds, and are all doing very well in in-cubators.

The first child was born at 12:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Brielh's mother-in-law, Mrs. Martin Brielh Sr., in Bellevue. She was taken to the hospital by ambulance and the other three were born there with-in the hour.

Mrs. Brielh and her husband, Martin Jr., a General Electric Co. engineer in Cleveland, have one other child, a 15-month-old boy.

Quadruplets occur about once in 650,000 births.

Massillon Man Fined In Lisbon On 3 Counts

LISBON—A Massillon man was fined a total of $75 and costs on three traffic counts Friday at a hearing before Mayor Wilbur War-ren.

Beverly Bennett was fined $25 and costs each for speeding, im-proper license plates and driving al-one on a temporary permit. He was arrested Friday at 1:55 a.m. by village police on Rt. 30 east.

Jay L. Taggart, 19, of Wellsville cited Monday by the state highway patrol for failure to yield the right of way, was fined $15 and costs Friday by the mayor.

A hearing scheduled for Friday night for Dr. Adolph S. Rumreich of East Chestnut St., Columbiana County health commissioner, and Junior Baker of 262 Sherman St., was continued until tonight.

Mayor Warren granted the con-tinuation on request of Dr. Rum-reich's counsel. The men were cit-ed Wednesday night on N. Market St. by village police for creating a disturbance.

SEES DANGER—Herschel D. Newsom, master of the National Grange, has warned that 63 per cent of the nation's farm families face "elimination" un-der the government's present farm program. He made his statement at the 88th annual convention of the Grange in Cleveland.

BEAVER, Pa. (AP)—Authorities re-ported an 18-year-old sailor was killed yesterday while fleeing from police in a stolen car. The victim was identified as Larry Keith Boso, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Boso of East Liverpool, Ohio.

Patrolman Charles Krepps of Beaver said the car Boso was driving crashed into a ramp abutment at nearby Vanport while he was chasing him.

Krepps said the car was reported stolen by John L. McKain of West Alexandria, Pa., who rooms in Beaver.
